Councilman escapes serious injury when garage bursts into flames

Durr says impact wrench ignites gas while working on lawnmower

It could have been worse. Much worse.

City councilman Bobby Durr narrowly escaped serious injury when his garage at 1031 Indian Trail caught fire Saturday afternoon while he was working to repair his lawnmower.

"I was very blessed to get out," Durr said following the fire that singed his hands, eyebrows and hair. "I could have been very easily laying in the funeral home."

Contacted Monday by phone, Durr said he was OK and thankful that he wasn't seriously injured.

The fire started while

Woman jailed for punching officer in mouth

A woman is behind bars after being charged with punching a Lawrenceburg police officer in the mouth early Tuesday morning on Poplar Drive, according to police reports.

Yarborough

Katherine D. Yarborough, 31, 207 Hawthorne St., Frankfort, faces a host of charges that include second offense DUI, third-degree assault of a police officer, second-offense alcohol intoxication in a public place, second-degree possession of a controlled substance, prescription not in proper container and resisting arrest.

Officer James Dunn responded to 106 Poplar Drive around 12:45 Tuesday morning after receiving a complaint that Yarborough assaulted another female at the residence and was driving recklessly on the street, according to his report.

When he attempted to handcuff Yarborough, she resisted arrest and had to be "assisted to the ground," according to Dunn's report.

That's when Yarborough "started punching and struck me in the face and bottom lip," according to the report.

On Tuesday, Lawrenceburg Police Chief Chris Atkins said that

A humbling surprise

Markwell's support of youth hunting lands him Sportsman of Year award

He processes hundreds of deer each year, but none give Denny Markwell as much pleasure as those he cuts and wraps for children who participate in the annual youth hunts organized by officers with Kentucky Fish and Wildlife.

Markwell, owner of Markwell's Deer Processing on Bruner Road, doesn't charge a fee for processing those deer but was rewarded for his efforts recently by being selected the 6th District Sportsman of the Year.

During an interview last week, Denny said he was more than a little surprised when notified that he had won the award, given each year by Fish and Wildlife officers in the 17-county district.

"I was surprised, real surprised," Markwell said from his home last week. "It's

Deputies give gypsy scammers the boot

Sheriff Troy Young says he's had about all he can stand of so-called "gypsies" showing up here from the Carolinas each spring and scamming unsuspecting residents.

"I've been dealing with these people for 23 years," said Young. "Every year it's fence painting, barn painting or a blacktopping scam.

"I pretty much have come to expect they're going to show up, just like the dandelions. Sometimes you just gotta go out and spray."

The "gypsies" showed up right on time last week and scammed at least one property owner into allowing them to paint the roof of his barn. Another property owner said no, but returned home from a trip to Lexington only to find a large portion of his barn roof painted without his approval.

Young said the men were rounded up, ticketed, had a 2014 Dodge Ram pickup impounded and told to beat it.

"We put them off hoofing it," said Young, adding that their vehicle was seized for having no insurance and an altered license plate. "We dropped them off at Walmart and left them sitting there on two 5-gallon buckets of paint."

Durr used an electric impact wrench to loosen bolts on the mower's engine.

"I had it raised up and was laying on my back," Durr said. "When I started the impact wrench, fire just went everywhere."

Durr said he wasn't aware that the lawnmower was leaking gas when he triggered the impact wrench.

He said it's likely that fumes from the gas had built up and that an electric spark from the wrench's motor ignited them into a ball of fire.

"It was almost like an explosion."

Durr said he never stood up to escape.

"I just rolled out the door, which was 3 to 4 feet from where I was working, and got out of it.

The fire destroyed the garage and all of its contents, Durr said, but the fire wasn't able to spread to nearby structures due to the quick arrival of the Lawrenceburg Fire Department, which was gathered a short distance away for training at the fire hall.

"The fire department got there in about three minutes," said Fire Chief Bobby Hume.

Durr said he was very impressed with the response and how well the firefighters performed.

"I really appreciate how they took care of it," Durr said.

"We have an excellent bunch of firefighters who are top notch in every way.

"I'm proud of the firefighters we have. They're professionals."

well said the men showed up at his home, saying they were painting another man's barn and asking to paint his.

Markwell said he told them that he would see how they did on the other barn and, if the work was good, he'd consider having them paint his.

"I left for the day, came home and found the guy sitting here with at least a 20x20 spot of my roof painted," Markwell said.

Markwell said he told the man to leave his property and that he would have to come back and remove the paint. The following day, two other men showed up and instead of removing the paint, wanted to finish the job.

"It wasn't even the right color," said Markwell, who said the men took off after he refused to allow them to continue working.

The sheriff's office was called and when deputies arrived, they found the men did not have an Anderson County business license, which was strike one.

Strikes two and three were vehicle registration and insurance issues.

One of the men, Pat Paul Sherlock of North Augusta, South Carolina, received a handful of tickets and ordered to appear June 6 in Anderson District Court before being sent on his way.

"It's always a Sherlock," Young said.

Young said whether it's barn painting or blacktopping, the group always offers an incredibly cheap deal that almost always turns out to be a bad deal for property owners.

"They'll show up with a load of blacktop and say they just finished a job somewhere else and have to get rid of the extra blacktop or they'll get in trouble with their boss," Young said. "They'll start the pricing at $400, but before long it's up to $3,400 after they start and they'll try to strong-arm people into paying more.

"By the time their done, you can still see grass growing through it."

Young recalled on instance where the scammers convinced a homeowner into allowing them to paint a barn.

"They said they were going to give it two coats," Young said.

"When the homeowner questioned why they only did one, they told him that they were using a double coat nozzle."

Young said it's unfortunate that so many people fall for the scams each year.

"People just love a good deal," Young said. "But if it's too good to be true, it almost certainly is."

Young said last week's roundup was made easier by the fact that several years ago his office took over business license enforcement from the judge-executive's office.

"Once they don't have a business license, they're done," Young said. "That's the first thing people should ask. If they don't, they don't belong doing business in Anderson County."

kind of overwhelming. I didn't expect it but I appreciate it. I'm humbled by it, to be honest.

"I'm sure others are more deserving of it."

Markwell's support of the youth hunts was key to him being nominated for the award.

"By the goodness of his heart, Denny Markwell has taken it upon himself to process all deer harvested during [the youth hunts] at no cost," officers said in a statement. "Without him, these hunts would not be possible."

Markwell, an avid hunter and fisherman, said he's happy to play a roll in the annual youth hunt which is organized by local Fish and Wildlife officers and the Anderson County Sportsman's Club to give children who might not otherwise get an opportunity a chance to go hunting.

"I think that's a great program," he said. "If you get a kid hooked on hunting, they not get hooked on drinking or something else."

Markwell's efforts don't stop there. He also processes and sends venison jerky to troops fighting the war on terror each year as well as to the war-torn nation of Sierra Leone as part of a church mission.

"He's just a good-hearted man," said his wife, Joan. "He works his hiney off and gives back to the community in so many ways.

"That's just one of them."

"None of this would be possible without Joanie and the crew I have here," Denny Markwell said. "If it wasn't for them, I couldn't do this."

Markwell also is a big supporter of Hunters for the Hungry, a program that helps provide meat for those in need. To do his part, Markwell and his staff process for free deer harvested by hunters who choose to have the meat donated to food pantries.

Criteria for the award include those who assist conservation officers with a successful prosecution on Fish and Wildlife cases; assisting conservation officers with youth events such as fishing derbies, turkey and deer hunts; and many other areas of outdoors education, wildlife officers said.

Markwell's efforts also mean that youth who harvest deer will be able to take home what is usually needed meat for their families.

"Most families benefit from the hunt by filling their own freezers with venison," officer said, adding that having the meat processed is an important part of teaching young people the purpose of harvesting the animals.

Firefighters exit a trailer after dousing a fire that broke out around 8 a.m. Monday. The cause of the fire was likely due to an electrical problem inside the trailer, located on lot 43.

City firefighters save woman's home from fire

Heavier construction, fast response save structure

This time, the trailer survived.

A fire damaged but didn't destroy a woman's house trailer on Versailles Road, thanks to quick action by the Lawrenceburg Fire Department and some remodeling of the structure.

The fire broke out around 8 a.m. Monday at 1141 Versailles Road, Lot 43, in a home owned by Jacqueline Lendrum, who was home when it broke out but escaped without injury, according to Lawrenceburg Fire Chief Bobby Hume.

Hume said the fire was caused by an electrical problem with a light and broke out in an area of the home that had been modified.

"At some point in time, they built a wall into a bedroom, which saved the day," Hume said. "They built it from 2x4s instead of the usual trailer construction of 2x2s and used actual drywall instead of paneling.

"That made it a little better and it didn't burn quite as quickly. It probably saved the trailer."

Hume said the 2x2 construction is the reason trailers historically don't stand up long to fire.

"With 2x2s and paneling on them, they burn really fast," he said.

State funds OK'd to resurface part of Highway 749

By Ben Carlson
News staff

The Anderson County Fiscal Court voted last Tuesday to accept nearly $500,000 in state funds, the bulk of which will be used to resurface 4.9 miles of state highway 749 between Hickory Grove and Bonds Mill roads.

Gritton

Magistrates approved the state's recommendation to spend $335,588 on that portion of the road, but rejected the recommendation to use the balance of the funds — $151,063 — to pave an additional two miles of that road.

Instead, magistrates voted to use that money on county highways, a move that will more than offset funds that will be lost due to the state's loss in gas tax revenue to the past year.

The funds are part of the state's rural secondary road program, which are designed to take care of the state highways in the county's more rural areas.

Each year, the fiscal court is asked to approve the state's preferred area for resurfacing, but is allowed to vote on so-called "flex" funds that it can use for its own purposes.

Judge-Executive Orbrey Gritton said that this year, the fiscal court decided to use the flex funds on county roads.

Gritton said the reason for that is the expected loss of $63,000 in state road aid this year, due to a significant decline in gas prices that affected state tax revenue.

"Our thoughts are, with the amount of snow and rain we've had, a lot of roads in the county need some help," Gritton said, adding that by flexing the $151,063, the fiscal court will have more funds than it would have had otherwise to resurface county roads.

Gritton said the funds will be used based on the fiscal court's priority road list, which allows each of the six magistrates to select roads each year for resurfacing that annually rotate to the top of the list.

Our neighbors are doing what we can't

No location for chicken swap latest example of no answers when opportunity knocks

Column as I see 'em ...

Forgive me if I sound a bit frustrated this week.

It seems that every time opportunity knocks in Anderson County, we aren't able to respond in the ways our neighbors can.

Ben Carlson
Publisher

I spent a good deal of time during the past week asking questions about chicken swaps, truck and tractor pulls and swimming pools, only to walk away from every conversation shaking my head.

It started with the Lawrenceburg Chicken Swap and ended with a swimming facility it appears Anderson County will never, ever have.

For the uninitiated, the chicken swap has been going on for several years in the parking lot at Tractor Supply before it outgrew that location and was moved to the parking lot at Walmart.

Held every other Saturday, the swap is an eclectic collection of chickens and other critters that people come from all over Kentucky and even other states come to buy, sell and, as the name suggests, swap with other enthusiasts.

They pay nothing to set up, but spend thousands of dollars while they're here on food, gas and other items, you know, the way we hope tourists will.

An estimated 300 vendors set up for a recent swap, overwhelming parking at Tractor Supply and surrounding businesses and forcing it to be moved.

For a community that struggles so mightily to figure out ways to attract visitors via tourism, it's frustrating to have such a grass-roots event held here that simply has nowhere to gather outside of a parking lot.

Recently, there was an inquiry about moving the swap into the county park, but that was quickly shot down by the fiscal court due to rules that don't allow folks to engage in profit making on taxpayer-owned land.

The swappers seem perfectly happy to hold their event at Walmart, but organizer Doug McAnly admits he's worried that what started as a handful of enthusiasts getting together a few years ago is poised to outgrow even its new home.

That's a shame and, if true, could spell doom for what has become the state's largest chicken swap.

It's understandable that using taxpayer-owned property for such an event simply cannot happen. Were the fiscal court to allow the swappers to set up shop every couple of weeks, it would have to allow all manner of vendors out there and, before long, land that was purchased to serve the recreational desires of the community would become nothing more than a flea market on steroids.

Think of it as a 127 Yard Sale in perpetuity.

Still, for a community that struggles so mightily to figure out ways to attract visitors via tourism, it's frustrating to have such a grass-roots event held here that simply has nowhere to gather outside of a parking lot.

Next came the truck and tractor pulls, events that people seem to enjoy but of course came to a crashing halt a couple of years ago when the fiscal court and promoters knocked heads over money.

To summarize, the pulls were originally supposed to benefit the county park, specifically in regard to building a swimming facility.

Instead, those efforts veered off toward building a better pulling track, hence the lights, bleachers and fencing at that location.

There were all sorts of allegations that money wasn't being fairly accounted for, etc., and those using the facility walked away in a huff.

The upshot now is that some of those folks are ready to return but first must agree that every dime of net profit from the pulls be turned over the fiscal court to benefit the park, as is spelled out in a revised contract.

Gone are the opportunities to host such events to raise money for someone ailing or a family in need. Now, that money can only go back to the fiscal court for its use in the park — a use that has yet to be clearly defined and could ostensibly be used to make payroll, I suppose.

Of course that discussion trailed off into a swimming facility, that elusive golden goose everyone wants but no one knows how to obtain.

Ostensibly, any money raised from pulls should be added to the money that has languished for years in the fiscal court's pool fund.

After all, the location of the pulling track is exactly where a swimming facility is supposed to be built.

Trouble is, unless someone figures out a way to go from raising a few grand at these events to a few million, no aquatic center will be coming to the park anytime soon.

What's most frustrating is that chicken swaps, truck pulls and similar events are not a problem in Shelbyville, Harrodsburg or Versailles, because those communities have private fair boards that own private land and are set up specifically to handle those types of events, leaving their taxpayer-owned parks to do what they were designed to do: provide recreational opportunities for residents.

Of course we have no fair board that owns private land, so we are once again reduced to scratching our heads to figure out how to allow people to swap chickens, host truck pulls and just about anything else that comes along — something our neighbors figured out years ago.

Frustrating, isn't it?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Don't miss opportunity to vote

To the editor:

Hundreds of thousands of young Americans are serving our military to preserve our way of life, and yet fewer and fewer citizens are participating in our democracy.

May 19 is primary election day when Kentuckians will be selecting candidates for governor, commissioner of agriculture, and other constitutional officers.

Members of Anderson County Farm Bureau hope every voter will make their voices heard by casting informed votes for our government leaders.

As Kentuckians, it is our responsibility to find out the ideas of each candidate. And, as Anderson countians, it is our responsibility to let the candidates know what issues are important to our community, and it's easy to do.

It is critically important we have elected officials in office who understand the importance of agriculture and the issues confronting rural Kentucky.

Be involved and attend the functions candidates attend and tell them what is important and ask them about their position on key issues. Campaigns select issues based on what voters tell them are important.

Your involvement will make a difference in the process. First you must bring your issues to the front of the debate. Them, hold the candidates accountable by going to vote.

President, Anderson County Farm Bureau

Chill requires patience when planting

Winter in spring? Well, we just had the Dogwood Winter and all I can say is don't let the door hit you on your way out. As we usher in May, more blooms are on the way, and I for one sincerely hope we don't get any more frosts.

Cheryl Steenerson
Columnist

The old fashioned way of farming depended on a lot of observation before all the work began. Weathermen weren't on the air telling people what to do to protect their crops. Keen observations of Mother Nature saved the day.

Farmers knew from years of watching that it wasn't safe to plant tender summer vegetables in the garden until after the dogwoods had bloomed, because there was typically a few mornings of frost in late April or early May. Though the Dogwood is done, Blackberry Winter may show its face, so don't get too antsy.

Though my tomatoes are ready to be venturing outside to be hardened off, I'm too much of a mother to let them be planted out there yet. That one spring, when it snowed on Mother's Day, cured me of "early birdness."

I remember it because it was the first year we opened the Old Depot Farmers' Market. Being a relatively new kid to Kentucky, I remember chatting intensely with other farmers while we shivered. "Who had ever heard of snow on Mother's Day?" I said. Well, I learned a lot that year.

The Old Depot Farmers' Market opened last weekend and shivering or not, vendors there will have lots of offerings for you to enjoy. The market is open Fridays from noon to 5 p.m., Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and Sundays from noon to 3 p.m. It's a great way to support your local farmers.

I'm going to wait till it warms up a bit. I really don't like shivering, plus it's just easier for my brain to remember Memorial Day to Labor Day as my opening and closing dates. I can't wait to see everyone.

I can tell you one crop that will definitely be late this year. I still have potatoes to plant. Having a job that takes me off the farm full time makes it difficult to plant on my off days, since I can't schedule the weather. I'm betting that we're going to top the 10 inch mark for rain this month. Geez-o-pete. We normally get about 2-3 inches of rain in April. I know, I should have covered all of my planting areas with plastic, but I didn't.

If your green thumb is itching to get out there and plant, try researching some heritage perennial flowers to add to your landscape.

Visit perennials.com online for a wealth of knowledge ranging from flower types, growing conditions, blooming seasons and more. It's a nursery up in British Columbia, but they have a really good educational site to learn from and then you can find the flowers locally.

Now, get out there and enjoy the sunshine. Just keep the hot chocolate handy for those chilly days and nights yet to come. The dogwoods are still white and those blackberries haven't bloomed just yet. Happy growing.

Cheryl Steenerson is a gardening columnist for The Anderson News.

Select local foods for healthy eating

Using local foods is a way you can support local growers and perhaps eat healthier. I say perhaps because freshness depends on how much time lapses between harvesting and eating and how the food was stored.

Joan Martin
Guest columnist

Consumers want to know that the foods they choose to eat and drink are safe and healthy. At the same time, today's food consumer expects great taste, convenience and good economic value. Sometimes it's difficult to get all that in one package.

Locally grown food isn't necessarily less expensive but it might be fresher. Much of the local produce sold in the farmer's market was harvested less than 24 hours before going to market and some was harvested that morning.

Freshness and quality are

Take precautions to avoid tick bites

Lone star tick nymphs and adults are active now. American dog tick adults will be looking for hosts soon, too.

Tommy Yankey
Columnist

Personal protection, frequent self-inspection and prompt tick removal are keys to reducing tick bites and potential health consequences.

Ticks can be encountered throughout the Kentucky outdoors. They are most common in overgrown vegetation along forest edges and trails commonly transited by deer and other wildlife.

Personal protection and awareness are keys to preventing the irritation of tick bites and the risk of infection by a tick-borne disease. The incidence of infected ticks is very low in the state and ticks must feed for hours before passing a pathogen, so importance of early discovery and removal cannot be overemphasize

Lone star tick

Lone star ticks are frequently encountered along woodland trails and overgrown areas in much of Kentucky. Lone star ticks aggressively attack humans, a wide range of other mammals and ground-nesting birds. Intense reactions to saliva injected while these ticks feed can produce painful, itchy areas that can become infected if contaminated from frequent scratching.

Lone star ticks can transmit erlichiosis, a disease that can affect humans, dogs and cats. It can exhibit a variety of symptom combinations: fever, headache, chills, muscle pain, and in some cases, a rash. These appear one to two weeks after the bite from an infected tick. Kentucky is among the states with the highest reported incidences of erlichiosis: 3.3 to 26 cases per 1,000,000 people. The chance of an individual tick carrying the pathogen is very low and infected ticks must be attached and feed for at least 24 hours before the bacterium is transmitted.

American dog tick

The American dog tick will be active soon across the state, as well. This tick can be a vector of Rocky Mountain spotted fever (RMSF). Infections in humans usually begin as a sudden onset of fever and headache that appear from two to 14 days after feeding by an infected tick. Other symptoms can include nausea, muscle pain, lack of

Skeletal remains ID'd

Coroner says body was Indiana man

Ben Carlson
News staff

The skeletal remains of a man found last fall in western Anderson County were identified last week.

Smith

The remains were of Justin Michael Smith, 27, of Indianapolis, according to Anderson County Coroner Mark Tussey.

The cause of Smith's death is not known.

"There is no evidence of blunt force trauma," Tussey said, "and no evidence of penetrating trauma."

Smith disappeared about a year ago but wasn't found until last fall when hunters came across his remains.

Tussey said last week that Smith had spoken with his wife and mother last April, telling them that he was in the woods in Kentucky and that his cell phone was about to die, Tussey said.

In May, Tussey said Smith was seen hiding in a turkey blind by a property owner, who told him he was on private property and would have to leave. When the landowner came back, Smith was gone.

Tussey said Smith's dental records from his time in the National Guard were the key to getting a positive ID.

Dunn was not injured during the incident and remained on duty.

Before the alleged assault, Dunn reported that Yarborough was seated on the front porch of the residence when he arrived. When he asked her if she had been driving, Yarborough responded, "Hell yes, I was driving," according to the report, which was backed up by statements from other witnesses.

Dunn reported that the car Yarborough drove had "fresh damage to the front end."

Another female at the residence told Dunn that Yarborough had hit her in the throat, took her keys and drove off, but refused to file charges before being transported to an area hospital by Anderson County EMS.

Following the altercation, Dunn reported finding a pill bottle on the passenger side of the vehicle's seat containing codeine.

Yarborough was taken to the Lawrenceburg Police Department and transferred later Tuesday morning to the Shelby County Detention Center.

becoming more important than price in some food markets. These new ideas about food, agriculture and the environment may help us eat better and help local producers build a successful business.

Consider buying locally grown produce and learning new ways to prepare the food. When possible, buy directly from local producers. The food will probably be fresher and tastier. The fruits and vegetables are less likely to be varieties that have been bred to increase yield and travel well, at the expense of nutrient value.

Ask community grocery stores to feature locally grown foods. However, be realistic that major companies have contracts with providers which may reduce the possibility of purchasing locally produced foods.

Ask community grocery stores to feature locally grown foods. However, be realistic that major companies have contracts with providers which may reduce the possibility of purchasing locally produced foods.

Support certified farmer's markets which are true local markets. The price may be better or might be a little higher than similar food in the major grocery store. Decide what's more important to you.

appetite and a rash. Kentucky is among the states with the lowest reported incidence of RMSF (0.2 to 1.5 cases per 1 million people). As with erlichiosis, an infected tick must feed for about 24 hours before the pathogen passes to the host.

Blacklegged tick

The blacklegged tick, the vector of Lyme disease, is still relatively new to Kentucky. It has been reported primarily in the region of the Daniel Boone National Forest and in counties along the Ohio River in northern Kentucky. Some cases of Lyme disease have been diagnosed in Kentucky. As with the other diseases, the tick must be attached and feed for at least 24 hours to transfer the pathogen.

Preventing tick bites

Wear light-colored clothing so ticks can be seen easily.

Tuck pants into socks and shirt into pants to keep ticks from reaching your skin. A band of duct tape (sticky side out) around lower legs will help to trap ticks that have latched on as you pass by.

Avoid or minimize time in tick habitats.

Use personal protection – repellents (DEET or picaridin) or permethrin-based (Permanone) clothing sprays

Inspect your clothing and body regularly and remove ticks, especially at the end of the day. Ticks wander on the body for some time before settling to feed. Often, they can be found before they become attached.

Take a warm soapy shower after potential tick exposure.

Wash clothing in hot water and detergent; store clothing in a sealed bag until it can be washed. Check dogs frequently and remove ticks as they are found. There are insecticides/repellents that can be used to protect companion animals from ticks.

Use fine-tipped tweezers to grasp the tick as close to the skin surface as possible. Then, pull upward with steady, even pressure.

Removing ticks

The longer the tick has been in place, the harder it is to remove. Barbed mouthparts and cement secreted anchors it firmly to the skin.

Use fine-tipped tweezers to grasp the tick as close to the skin surface as possible. Then, pull upward with steady, even pressure.

Twisting or "unscrewing" the tick may cause the mouthparts to break off and remain in the skin. Use of irritants, such as gasoline or a hot match tip, may cause the tick to salivate excessively, increasing the chances for skin irritation and potential disease transmission.

Prevent infection after removing the tick by thoroughly disinfecting the bite site and washing your hands with soap and water.

Dealing with tick bites

Tick-borne diseases occur in Kentucky; fortunately, the incidence is very low. The risk of infection depends on the species of tick and length of attachment. Ticks can be removed carefully and preserved in rubbing alcohol for identification.

It is normal for a tick bite to be red and irritating for several days. See your physician if the red area expands, or symptoms typical of the disease appear.

STUDENTS ASSIST HUMANE SOCIETY

First grade students at Emma B. Ward Elementary School gather for a photo while participating in the recent Community Service Day in Anderson County. The students collected donations and items for the Anderson Humane Society and delivered them that day. They also spent time drawing pictures of cats and dogs being sheltered at the facility. 'They were more excited about this than any field trip we've taken,' says their teacher, Nicole Kidwell. Front row, from left are Tyler Smith, Addison Penn, Ryan Heng, Carson Azzinaro, Ethan Curtsinger, Cooper Welch, Sophie Edmondson, Karlee Ruble, Jeremy Hellard and Dallas Harvey. Middle row: Madison Cornish, Logen Bryant-Watson, Katie Russell, Hunter Dawson, Kendall Riley, Colbee Crouch, Kate Cooper, Jadyn Caldwell, Easton Holt, Olivia Harrison, Sierriah Wheatley and Summer Duncan. In back are Kidwell, Marla Swartz and Donna Callahan.

ECC STUDENTS ENJOY FAMILY INVOLVEMENT NIGHT

The Sparrow Early Childhood Center recently hosted students and families during their Eric Carle Family Involvement Night. Students were able to participate in activities related to some of their favorite Eric Carle books. Clifford the Big Red Dog even made an appearance at the Book Fair. Each student took home an Eric Carle themed bag with a new book, interactive math and literacy activities specifically selected for their age and ability levels, and a list of suggestions on how to increase school readiness. They were also able to sample the fruits represented in the story the Very Hungry Caterpillar and tally their favorites. Strawberries were the favorite fruit of our SECC students. Left, student Preston Connely enjoys some of the treats from The Very Hungry Caterpillar book. Right, student Ryder Booth hangs out with Clifford the Big Red Dog.

HIGH SCHOOLERS DONATE TO HUMANE SOCIETY

Members of the Anderson County High School Humane Teen Club present a check for $1,082.47 to Donna Callahan of the Anderson Humane Society from money they collected during a 'Pennies for Puppies' fundraiser. The club was started six years ago and meets each month to discuss ways to assist the community in caring for animals. During its first year, the Pennies for Puppies fundraiser was launched and was so successful the club continues to do it each year. Each teacher is given a container and encouraged to come up with incentives for their classes to contribute. They have one week to collect the money in any denomination, not just pennies. Shown presenting the check are Analise Hardin, Elijah Patterson, Jo Jo Robinson, Donna Callahan of the Humane Society, Charles Martens, Autumn Miller, Julie Paden and Nikki Harvey.

Sparrow Early Childhood Center receives $11,500 in grant funds

From staff reports

The Sparrow Early Childhood Center will receive $11,500 from a Born Learning Academy grant provided by Toyota and the United Way, according to a news release.

The school was one of 10 in the state to receive the funds.

"I am very excited to be given the opportunity to take part in this generous grant provided by United Way," said Principal Janice Meredith. "Sparrow Early Childhood Center will be the base site for this program, but all Anderson County elementary shools will partner to ensure that we are serving the students and families across Anderson County that would benefit from this program."

The United Way Born Learning Academies meet a critical need in Kentucky communities – early childhood parental education – and are designed to improve kindergarten readiness, since half of Kentucky's children arrive to kindergarten unprepared, according to the news release.

The academies include six, free monthly workshops that teach parents and caregivers of children from prenatal to 5 years old how to turn everyday moments into learning opportunities.

The state is in year two of a four year, $1.4 million expansion, while Toyota is in its fourth year of a $1 million investment.

"Although we are just learning about the ins and outs of the Academy, our team is excited to begin the process of planning for the workshops that will be funded by the grant over the next two years," Meredith said.

"Next school year, year one of our Academy, we will receive $6,500 to purchase the required curriculum and materials to facilitate the six workshops that will help us provide resources and hands on materials to families on ways to turn everyday life activities into learning moments for children.

"Our hope is that these sessions will serve to not only increase a child's school readiness, but also positively engage families in their child's school experience."

SCOUT LEADERS HONORED

About 100 friends, residents and past and current members of Boy Scout Troop 37 gathered last week to celebrate and show their appreciation to Scoutmaster Kevin Cox (right) and Troop Committee Chairman Robert Shearer for their 25 years of continued service in their positions. Troop 37, chartered in 1926, is sponsored by First Christian Church. In that time, Troop 37 has given thousands of hours of community service to Lawrenceburg and Anderson County such as highway trash cleanups, flag retirements, ice storm and flood damage cleanup, food pantry volunteer, senior citizens center service, county humane society projects, and much more. During their tenure, 31 scouts have become Eagle Scouts, Scouting's highest rank, a ratio many times higher than the national average.

Hudson wins art contest

From staff reports

Taylor Hudson was named the Anderson County winner in the 2014 Jim Claypool Conservation Art Contest, according to a news release.

Taylor is a son of Daniel and Courtney Hudson, and is a third grade student at Emma B. Ward Elementary School.

His entry was submitted by art teacher Stachia Serafini.

This contest was produced as a partnership between Kentucky Farm Bureau and the Kentucky Association of Conservation districts.

This year's theme was

"Protect Kentucky's Soil." The title of Taylor's entry was, "Be a Hero!! Help Soil Kid!" The winners were announced at the Anderson County Conservation District's annual banquet.

Other winners were Campbell Perry, Christian Academy of Lawrenceburg school winner and second place in the county; Addie Garland, Saffell Street School winner and third place in the county; and Alyssa Spencer, Robert B. Turner school winner.

Photo furnished

Christian Academy of Lawrenceburg student Campbell Perry, left, and Robert B. Turner Elementary School students Alyssa Spencer show the awards they won during an art contest sponsored by Kentucky Farm Bureau and the Kentucky Association of Conservation districts.

Students in grades kindergarten through fifth from across the state used the soil conservation theme to create 47,356 art entries.

Taylor received a $25 check from Kentucky Farm Bureau for his winning artwork.

Every student whose entry was selected for the contest received a T-shirt, a participation ribbon and $5.

Judges from the local conservation districts chose county winners, whose entries then moved on to the state-level competition. A distinguished panel of judges with diverse environmental backgrounds selected area and state winners in both the writing and art categories in mid-January.

State Farm Insurance is there for all of your needs

It's a story that fairly sums up what Stan Simmons means when he talks about the level of customer service his State Farm Insurance clients have come to expect.

"Just recently we had a water claim and one client called me on a Saturday afternoon," said Simmons, who has worked in the Lawrenceburg market for the past 16 years.

"I was at their home just hours after they discovered their loss. This type of service truly shows how we care and honor our clients in their time of greatest need."

Simmons, who has been in the insurance industry for the past 26 years, doesn't just show up to help his clients. His years of experience in claims also means his clients won't have to wait days or even weeks to have their claims paid.

"My customers love the fact that I can pay claims the same day they present an estimate for repairs," Simmons said, adding that he is able to pay over 70 percent of the claims that come into his office.

It seems almost counter-intuitive that any insurance agent would consider paying claims anything but enjoyable, but to Simmons, doing so is simply another chance to show how dedicated he and his staff are to taking care of their clients.

"Helping and serving others by helping them overcome an unexpected accident or loss by presenting them with a prompt and fair payment for the accident or loss can be so rewarding," he said. "In our office, a claim is a time to shine or, as we call it, an opportunity to serve."

Simmons offers a full suite of services to his clients ranging from insurance for every need along with financial services and investments.

"When a customer visits our office they will be rewarded with remarkable service, where everyone will feel wanted and needed," he said. "Our office is where customers can grow in wealth through investments and people feel trust and honesty in every transaction.

"We deliver the best possible claims service, financial reviews, retirement reviews and bank products of every kind."

The numbers speak for themselves. Not only is Simmons' office in the top 5 percent in the nation, his team of six agents helped more customers with bank car loans last year than any other State Farm agent in Kentucky.

"Because of my team's hard work and dedication, we were placed on the Chairman's Circle and the Senior Vice President's Club," he said, adding that State Farm is the largest insurance company in America with over 44 million cars insured.

"We did not get to that point by accident," he said.

Those accomplishments aside, Simmons said he knows none of that matters without his clients, and he devotes as much time and effort as possible to provide for their needs.

"We have the best office hours of any insurance agency in town to provide that extra service when our customers need it the most," he said. "We have made a commitment to be more available to our customers by dedicating Saturdays and long weekdays to help a community that often commutes to work.

"I am also available to help clients 24 hours a day, seven days a week by actually coming to their homes on claims."

Simmons said he stands ready to assist anyone who is looking for quality customer service to meet their needs.

"Come see us for a quote and I guarantee that you will be encouraged by the compassion, caring and professional attitude of the State Farm Insurance team here in Lawrenceburg," he said.

Favorites to help celebrate Derby Day

The Kentucky Derby is a time-honored tradition since 1875.

It has been labeled "The Most Exciting 2 Minutes in Sports" for the duration of the race and "The Run for the Roses" for the beautiful blanket of 554 red roses that are draped over the Kentucky Derby winner.

Ciara Hyatt
Cooking Columnist

Millions of people celebrate the Kentucky Derby every year, whether it be for the thrill of the race, the beauty of the horses, or the overall excitement of the tradition, it is an event that most of us look forward to every year on the first Saturday in May.

When I moved to Kentucky, I wasn't familiar with the Kentucky Derby but it didn't take my Kentucky born and bred husband to introduce me to the tradition that just happens to be one of this favorite holidays.

Well, all you have to do is mention holiday to me and my mind starts turning as I get busy planning the menu.

We don't celebrate the Derby at Churchill Downs; we usually gather on the farm with a big group of friends, a bunch of big screen TVs, and lots of food.

The smell of burgers on the grill, the sound of the kids laughing and playing, and the hustle and bustle as all the adults are busy picking their favorite horses, its all so much fun.

This year, I am bringing beer cheese and mint juleps to the party.

Beer cheese, because it is a Kentucky favorite, first served in the 1940s in Clark County, and who doesn't love beer cheese?

And mint juleps because they are the official drink of the Kentucky Derby, and one of my favorites.

So while it may be true that I'd rather be picking out my favorite recipes for Derby Day than my favorite horse or hat, I will sure be there celebrating with the best of them and I may even pick out my favorite name of a 3-year-old thoroughbred and give him a few good hollers before the day is over.

Beer cheese

2 packages of softened cream cheese
1 package of original ranch dressing mix
3-4 cups of shredded sharp (or extra sharp) cheddar cheese
1/2 can of beer (preferably a heavy beer for more flavor)
For some heat add a few (or more) shakes of hot sauce
Salt and pepper

Directions

Mix all ingredients together. Cover and refrigerate over night. Serve with wheat crackers.

Mint julep

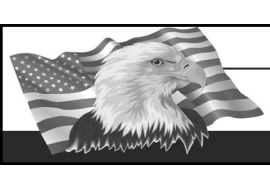

Simple syrup (bring equal parts sugar and water to boil, remove from heat and allow to cool)
Bourbon (a shot or two)
Fresh mint (about 6-8 leaves)
Shaved ice

Directions

Pour ingredients into glass, crush the mint with a spoon (to get the most flavor), mix and pour over ice. Traditionally served in a silver or pewter cup.

*Tip: Make a large pot of simple syrup and keep in the fridge for quick and easy drinks.

National Day of Prayer is May 7

By Ben Carlson
News staff

This year's National Day of Prayer is scheduled for Thursday, May 7 from 12:15 to 12:45 p.m. at the Anderson County Courthouse, according to a news release.

The annual event is open to "all followers of Christ," said Minister Terry Cooper of Ninevah Chistian Church.

The annual event was created in 1952 when President Harry Truman signed a joint resolution from Congress, declaring an annual national day of prayer. The law was amended in 1988 and signed by President Ronald Reagan, permanently setting the days as the first Thursday of every May, according to the National Day of Prayer website.

Cooper said Ninevah Christian Church helps organize and promote the event.

"It's not Ninevah Church's thing," he said. "We step aside. We're Christians. We are prayers."

Cooper said the day is set aside to pray for the nation's wellbeing, along with the wellbeing of those who lead it.

Photo furnished

Janet Cooper, left, assists children with prayer during last year's National Day of Prayer at the Anderson County Courthouse in Lawrenceburg. This year's event is scheduled for Thursday, May 7 from 12:15 to 12:45 p.m.

"We pray for the nation, and the nation is run by governments ... local, state, federal ... we pray at the event for every one of those, the judiciary and the political leaders.

"We pray for the police, the schools and how the nation is kept in order through established forms of government, schools and churches.

"What holds the nation together ... that's what we pray for."

The National Day of Prayer belongs to all Americans, according to the website. It is a day that "transcends differences, bringing together citizens from all backgrounds."

"We have lost many of our freedoms in America because we have been asleep," Shirley Dobson, the organization's chairman, said. "I feel if we do not become involved and support the annual National Day of Prayer, we could end up forfeiting this freedom, too."

CHURCH BRIEFS

Churches to celebrate National Prayer Day Eve

Six area congregations are planning a joint 7 p.m. worship service to mark the eve of the National Day of Prayer, according to a news release.

Participating churches are Alton Baptist, Evergreen Baptist, Lawrenceburg Trinity Church, New Life Christian Fellowship, Open Bible and Second Christian.

The service will be held Wednesday, May 6 at Alton Baptist Church. Alton is located on US 127 North between Lawrenceburg and Frankfort.

The joint service will feature choirs, drama presentations and devotionals presented by members of the various participating churches along with corporate prayer for national renewal and revival.

DON'T PICK UP A SNAKE

The story is told: "A snake was hit by a car. A woman picks him up, feeds him, and gets him back to a full state of health. But then he bites her, injecting her with his deadly poison. On her death bed, she asked 'after all I did why me?' The snake responds 'you knew I was a snake when you picked me up.'" Now we know that snakes don't talk but this is an interesting thought to say the least.

1 Corinthians 15:33 "Do not be deceived: "Evil company corrupts good habits."

Naive people often think that they are unique and that they can change any given situation. Often, people will say of another, "I know that they are that way, but they'll change." People begin with friendship, even dating and maybe even marriage might take place, only later to state I should have never, dated, befriended or married them; I should have known better. Most of the time, what we start with, is what we get.

One fellow asked me years ago, "David, what do you think is wrong with a fellow who has been married five times?" I asked where he had gotten these five women and he said he had met them in bars." That said a mouth full! You normally get what you go looking for.

Paul said flee youthful lust, he also stated abstain from every form of evil. Start using some sound judgments and that means: "Don't pick up a snake."

A magic wand for a better sports world

There are so many times when I just wish I had a magic wand and could make everything right in our world.

It makes no difference what the issue is, I could change it.

John Herndon
Sports Editor

Since this IS the sports page, I guess I will stick to that category today. And since my two biggest wishes are for the Kentucky Wildcats to go 40-0 and my beloved Cincinnati Reds win the World Series.

Every year. But I digress.

There are four things I would do with high school sports that are doable and would improve the games.

Get Anderson County a track

Granted, this one is highly local, but Anderson County's lack of an adequate track has gone from disappointing to embarrassing.

I took a full-time position with The Anderson News in the 2001-2002 school year and cannot remember the high school track team hosting a meet. Several years ago, an inspection of the track rendered the verdict that it was not fit to host a meet and things have not changed.

Enough already.

Counting middle school students, between 75 and 100 kids use the track every year. They can work out at home, but have to go on the road to compete. Frankly, that's pathetic.

Over the years, I have heard all kinds of reasons why the local track has not been replaced or upgraded – hey, it can't be downgraded. Some made sense, some didn't, but over 10 years ago, it was talk. Today, it's not even that.

Odds of a Anderson County getting a new track anytime soon? I am not holding my breath.

Shorten football season by a week

Currently, football starts practicing around July 15 and the season opens around Aug. 20. This year, Anderson County opens on Aug. 21 and the Bearcats have a bye week during the season.

The problem is there are too many teams in the playoffs. Since the state went to six classes in 2007, nearly everyone makes the post-season. While the last four years Anderson has been in a six-team district, meaning two of the teams would not make the playoffs, this year, the Bearcats are in a four-team district. All four will advance. Something just seems out of whack with such a scenario.

Plus, there are a ton of first round playoff matchups that are embarrassments for both teams.

Solution: Allow only two teams from each district to advance to the playoffs and end the last weekend of November.

Chances of this happening: Are you kidding? Too many bad teams hang onto the notion they are in the playoffs. It ain't gonna happen.

Extend the tennis and swimming seasons

Under the current setup, tennis season starts around March 15 and must be over around April 30, with regional tournaments the following week.

Why the rush?

School is not out for a month and the KHSAA dead period does not commence until June 25. Why does tennis need to be over so quickly?

Simply extend the season several weeks with the championships around Memorial Day. There is no compelling reason for that not to happen.

For that matter, extend the swimming seasons, too. The first meets are in mid-November with regionals beginning in early February. When you consider Christmas vacation is in the middle of the season, swimming has about a seven week season, for all practical purposes

Chances of it happening? Good question, but it seems like a no-brainer.

Classify baseball

Numbers probably affect baseball as much or more than any other sport at the high school level. Face it, pitching is the name of the game and more numbers generally mean more pitchers.

You hear of small schools upsetting bigger ones in tournament play but it is nearly impossible for them to win a regional tournament. Not enough arms.

The only answer that I can see is to divided the baseball playing schools up to three or four classes.

Chances of it happening? It's just a matter of time.

BROWN MAKES BEARS FEEL BLUE

By John Herndon
Sports Editor

TAYLORSVILLE – Josh Brown had never been better and it could not have come at a better time.

Anderson County's senior right-hander dominated host Spencer County last Thursday as the Bearcats rolled to a 5-1 win in 30th District baseball game.

In Anderson's most important game of the year to date, Brown used a combo of wicked curveballs and quick fastballs to lead the Bearcats past the pesky Bears. Brown gave up just two hits and struck out 13. He also walked two.

"That was probably as good as he has thrown," Anderson coach L.W. Barnes said. "He was very effective."

Brown got roughly 67 percent of his pitches over the plate, with his curve being his out pitch. Breaking sharply, the curve repeatedly fooled Spencer hitters and enticed them into fruitless swings.

"If I can throw the curve for strike, it can be effective," Brown said.

Spencer did not even get a runner to second base until the seventh inning when Nathan Connard led the inning off with a home run over the left field fence. Brown walked the next two hitters but got out of trouble with a 4-6-3 double play started by Daniel Whalen.

Brown whiffed Avery Vanetta to end the game.

"I felt great," Brown said of his effort. "I maybe got a little tired in at the end."

Brown made sure Anderson's three-spot in the top of the third would be all the offense the Bearcats needed. Brice Stockton's two-out, two-run single gave the Bearcats all the offense they would need.

Stockton drove in Whalen, who had led the inning off with a single, and Wesley Jorette, who had walked.

Anderson County senior Josh Brown eyes the plate during Thursday's district win at Spencer County. Brown struck out 13 and gave up only two hits.

Tyler Peters, courtesy running for Stockton, made it home without the aid of a hit. Peters used a pair of wild pitches to get from first to third, then raced home on a passed ball to make it 3-0.

Barnes said he was not sure if the Bearcats' aggressive base running pressured Spencer's defense, but did

Aldridge slam, Hawkins blast stun Cardinals

In a softball season defined by thunderstorms, it was only fitting that lightning struck twice for Anderson County last Tuesday night.

The Lady Bearcats, ranked No. 6 in the latest Kentucky Softball Coaches Association poll, used two swings of the bat in the bottom of the sixth inning to defeat second-ranked Scott County, 7-4. The game had originally been scheduled to be played at Scott Monday night but wet field conditions prompted the schools to move the game to Anderson a night later.

Anderson County head coach Brent Aldridge, right, greets his daughter, Mia, after she hit a game-tying grand slam against Scott County.

The Lady Bearcat lightning destroyed what seemed to be a safe 4-0 lead for the Lady Cardinals.

First it was Mia Aldridge. After Anderson opened the bottom of the sixth with three straight singles, Aldridge turned a Kennedy Sullivan offering the other way for a grand slam that just cleared the fence in right center. It was Aldridge's first varsity home run and set off a wild celebration on the Anderson bench.

"I didn't think it was going out," Aldridge said, echoing a common sen-

Kaitlyn Riley putts during the Mid-South Conference tournament last week. Playing for the University of the Cumberlands, the Anderson County resident finished second and was named All-Conference.

Riley, Hyatt earn Mid-South All-Conference

From staff reports

The University of the Cumberlands took the Mid-South Conference Women's Golf Championships, held last week at Bardstown Golf Club at Maywood.

The Patriots posted a three-day total of 922 (302-306-314) to win their fourth consecutive conference tournament crown. Campbellsville finished second with a 945 (306-323-316) with Cumberland (Tenn.) placing third with a 949.

Cumberlands secured the MSC's automatic bid in next month's NAIA Championship, to be held at Pooler, Ga.

Rachel Pingleton led Cumberlands with a three-day score of 227 (70-79-78), which was also good enough to win the individual championship. Anderson County resident Kaitlyn Riley, also playing for Cumberlands, finished second with a 229 (80-73-76) rallying after a slow start.

Another Anderson County resident, Anna-Marie Hyatt, finished ninth in the tournament with a 236 (76-80-80).

Riley was named the MSC Freshman of the Year and was selected first team all-conference. Hyatt was also named to the all-conference team.

Other All-MSC first team members were Pingleton, Abbey Burgdorf, and Annabeth McKay of the University of Cumberlands; Cassidy Scantland of Campbellsville and Katie Legge of Cumberland.

Basketball camp dates announced

The Anderson County Bearcat Basketball Camp will be held from June 8-11 at various local school gymnasiums, according to a news release.

The camp times are 9 a.m. until 2 p.m., with camp staff present an hour before and after each camp session, the release said. The camp is open to children entering kindergarten through the eighth grade.

The camp offers individual and team instruction, competitive games and drills, team competitions, individual awards and a learning atmosphere, according to the release.

The cost of the camp is $70 per camper, if registered in advance, and includes a zippered drawstring backpack and a basketball. First-day registration is $75.

For more information, contact Anderson County boys' basketball coach Glen Drury at 502-600-2482.

Cummins commits to S.C. school

Anderson County High School basketball player Austin Cummins has committed to Anderson University, an NCAA Division II program locate in Anderson, S.C.

Cummins, who finished as the second leading scorer in Kentucky during last season, committed during a trip to the school last week.

"Anderson University was just a good fit for me, I felt like," Cummins said. "The teammates made me feel welcomed and they were excited to have me on campus. I really liked Coach (Jason) Taylor and the way he said he would push me every day to make me better. He's one of those coaches that means business but when we are not on the court, he is a great guy."

Taylor led Anderson to the Elite Eight in 2011 and is the winningest coach in the history of the Trojans' program. Anderson went 14-14 last year.

Cummins, who plans to study nursing, chose Anderson after narrowing his choices to five Division II or NAIA colleges.

Anderson archers place third in state tourney

Platt, Wayne lead local team against best from across Kentucky

From staff reports

The Anderson County High School archery team finished third in the state archery tournament, held last Thursday at the Kentucky Basketball Academy in Lexington.

Anderson finished third with a score of 4,466, behind state champion Trigg County's 4,507 and Madison Central with 4,484.

Noah Platt led Anderson's boys with a 293 score, finishing sixth overall. Chance Wayne fired a 291, good for 21st.

The teams also participated in the Best of the Bluegrass meet, held on April 18. The Tournament selected shooters who were in the Top 100 statewide, based on the regional shoots, held in February.

Anderson County Middle School sent eight shooters to the tournament while Anderson County High had six advance.

The middle school team produced both winners. Makayela Lewis took first out of 93 girls in the tournament while Henry Thompson won the middle school boys.

At the high school level, Anderson's Bradley Wilson led the Bearcats, placing sixth. No scores were made available to The Anderson News.

The teams also hosted the sixth Anderson County Spring Fling Tournament recently with the high school team winning the award with a 3,423 score, 14 points ahead of second place Western Hills and third place Meade County.

Western Hills defeated Meade on a tie breaker for second place.

Chance Wayne led Anderson with a 295 followed by Bradley Wilson's 290.

At the middle school level, Stuart Pepper Middle School, of Meade County, edged out Anderson on a tiebreaker after they had finished play with a 3,324 score.

Thompson led the Anderson boys with a 292 while Lewis led the girls with a 290.

The middle school team also won the National Archery in the Schools Program 3D shoot on April 18, held at Anderson County Middle School.

The tournament format provided for only five shooters, making a perfect score 1,500. Anderson won first place with 1,278 followed by Mercer County at 1,263. Thompson took first place with a 286 while Becky Frederick took the girls title with a 262.

Anderson County won the high school division at 1,400 with Dunbar coming in second at 1,367. Wilson, Peyton and Wayne swept the first three places for the boyswith 285, 284 and 283 while Platt came in fifth at 278.

Caitlin Mehs took fourth place on the girls side at 270.

New section of Hatchery Creek trout stream to open next spring

From staff reports

The Hatchery Creek Stream and Wetland Restoration project just below Wolf Creek Dam at Lake Cumberland is nearing the half way point to completion, according to a news release. The exceptionally harsh winter and wet conditions this spring prompted some delays in the construction schedule, the release said.

The delays will push the opening of the Hatchery Creek project for public fishing to May 1, 2016. The upper part of Hatchery Creek, directly downstream of Wolf Creek National Fish Hatchery, will open to fishing sporadically late this coming summer, depending on construction activity.

"It is not unusual for construction projects to experience delays when conditions get too bad from the weather," said Rob Lewis, engineer coordinator for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. "Unfavorable working conditions are more pronounced when your project is located near wetlands and waterways like the Hatchery Creek project."

This project involves several public and private entities operating cooperatively. It is a complete redesign and construction of Hatchery Creek, which flows from the Wolf Creek National Fish Hatchery into the Cumberland River. The new Hatchery Creek will emulate a natural trout stream with runs, pools, shoals and wetlands. It will provide about one mile of restored stream to the public for fishing.

The project has made good progress by completing much of the new channel and installing several of the rock and log structures before the weather conditions slowed the work.

A construction company under contract with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has been working in the stream project area to obtain soil for other work associated with the repair of Wolf Creek Dam.

This is the phase of the project that has experienced delays due to the weather. The focus will return to the Hatchery Creek restoration when these contractors complete this part of the project.

"There will now be time for riparian and wetland vegetation to become established along the new project before it is opened," said Eric Dawalt of Stantec, the engineering and construction contractor on the project.

For more information on the Hatchery Creek Stream and Wetland Restoration Project including construction progress reports and current status, log on the department's website at fw.ky.gov and click on the "Fish" tab.

Application period for elk hunt ends Thursday night

By Lee McClellan
Ky. Dept. of Fish & Wildlife Resources

Elkhorn Creek in central Kentucky, the city of Elkton in Todd County and Elkhorn City in Pike County are modern day reminders of the elk that inhabited Kentucky when the pioneers arrived.

The elk disappeared from the state in the decades after the Civil War. In 1997, a landmark restoration effort began that re-established an elk herd in the state's scenic southeastern region and created one of the most sought-after hunting opportunities east of the Rocky Mountains.

"The herd is doing great," said Gabe Jenkins, deer and elk program coordinator with the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. "There is plenty of opportunity for hunters."

Hunters looking for a chance at a Kentucky elk have until midnight (Eastern time) April 30 to enter this year's quota hunt drawing. Completing the online application at www.fw.ky.gov ahead of time is strongly encouraged to avoid the expected last-minute rush of applicants.

"This is a wonderful opportunity," Jenkins said. "Hunter success rates are high. It is easier than going out west and you have a nice, quality animal that makes excellent table fare."

Kentucky residents and those living out-of-state are eligible to apply for all four permit types, such as bull or cow firearms and bull or cow archery/crossbow permits. However, they can only be drawn for one. Each application costs $10.

Kentucky Fish and Wildlife will issue 900 general quota hunt permits and 10 youth permits this year through a random computer drawing conducted in early May by the Kentucky Commonwealth Office of Technology. Results will be posted online at www.fw.ky.gov within the first two weeks of May.

Based on last season's numbers, Kentucky residents have a 1 in 149 chance to be drawn for a bull firearm tag, while they have a 1 in 30 chance for a cow firearm tag. Residents applying for a bull archery/crossbow tag had a 1 in 86 chance. Those residents applying for a cow archery/crossbow tag had an excellent chance to be drawn at 1 in 14.

Kentucky's elk herd is the largest east of the Rocky Mountains and more than all the states east of the Mississippi River combined. The elk zone in southeast Kentucky covers 16 counties and more than 4 million acres.

Traditionally, the hunter success rate for bulls is greater than 80 percent during the firearms seasons and around 60 percent for the archery season. For cow elk, the archery success rate typically is about 50 percent while firearms hunters traditionally experience success more than 60 percent of the time.

"The hunt has definitely changed," Jenkins said. "You are no longer going out, shooting an elk and going home. You have to put your time and effort into this. Scout, scout and scout some more. When you think you've done enough scouting, go back. The time and effort will pay off when it is your time to hunt."

The season limit this year is 250 bulls and 650 cow elk. Kentucky Fish and Wildlife will issue 150 firearms permits and 100 archery/crossbow permits for bulls; 390 firearms permits and 260 archery/crossbow permits for cow elk.

Hunters ages 15 and younger can apply for the youth-only quota hunt during the same application period as the general elk quota hunt drawing. They may also apply for the general quota elk hunt drawing, but cannot be drawn for both in the same year.

The youth-only option does not appear until the child's birthday is entered in the drawing application process. The youth permit is good during all seasons and is for either sex elk.

The proposed 2015-2016 hunting seasons for elk open in September and close in January 2016.

Bull elk firearms Hunt 1 opens Oct. 3 and closes Oct. 9 while bull elk firearms Hunt 2 opens Oct. 10 and closes Oct. 16.

Cow elk firearms Hunt 1 opens Dec. 12 and closes Dec. 18 and cow elk firearms Hunt 2 opens Jan. 2, 2016 and closes Jan 8. Bull elk archery season opens Sept. 19, 2015 and closes Jan. 18, 2016 while cow elk archery season opens Oct. 17, 2015 and closes Jan. 18, 2016. Bull elk crossbow season opens Sept. 26 and cow elk crossbow season opens Oct. 17, and both run through Dec. 25. Of note, hunters drawn for a bull or cow archery and crossbow permit may not hunt when an elk firearms season is open.

Check the 2015-2016 Kentucky Hunting and Trapping Guide for more details on elk hunting. This guide will be available in July. You may also visit the Kentucky Fish and Wildlife website at www.fw.ky.gov.

Missed chances doom Lady Cats; Central scores upset

By John Herndon
Sports editor

It was supposed to be a tuneup, but someone forgot to tell Madison Central.

And Anderson County appeared to forget what had made the Lady Bearcats one of Kentucky's Top 10 teams, according to the rankings nearly all season.

Madison Central scored five times in the top of the 10th inning to upset the host Lady Bearcats, 7-3, Friday night.

Madison Central improved to 11-8 while Anderson fell to 20-5 and lost for the third time in nine days.

Anderson left 13 runners on base, including eight between the sixth and ninth innings when it appeared the Lady Bearcats were going to escape, but could not come up with the big hit.

"We were flat," Anderson coach Brent Aldridge said. "I keep telling the kids if we don't play a certain way, we are beatable."

Anderson had been averaging better than seven runs a game but did not have a hit through the first three innings. The Lady Bearcats finished with 11, but Madison Central turned three double plays to get out of some jams.

None of those double plays was bigger than the unassisted one Sydney Vaughn turned in to end a major Lady Bearcat threat in the bottom of the ninth. Playing under the international tie-breaker, which places a runner at second base as an inning begins, Anderson's Leann Ashby, pinch hitting for Courtney Gale Hawkins, singled up the middle, moving Katelyn Harrod to third base.

Sammy Rogers then beat out an infield hit after Madison Central looked Harrod back to third.

With the bases loaded and none out, Missa Walker flied to right. Bailey Curry, who has been flirting with a .700 batting average all season, sent a rocket down the third base line. Vaughn somehow made the catch at third and doubled Harrod off third.

Vaughn had a monster night, belting two home runs, driving in three, and being in on all three double plays. She got Madison Central going with a line shot over the left field fence in the first, then pushed a towering fly over the fence in left field.

Madison Central took advantage of four Anderson errors.

"We just came out flat and we had bad execution," Aldridge said.

Anderson finally got going in the fourth when Mia Aldridge drove in Rogers to bring the Lady Cats within 2-1. They tied it in the fifth when Corrin Robinson and Harrod led the inning off with back-to-back doubles."

Anderson generated little else, wasting a gritty pitching effort from Ally Moore, who got through some early struggles to pitch effectively until the 10th inning.

"It should have been over long before that," Aldridge said. "We had so many chances."

SCOTT

timent by those who saw the lightning strike. "I thought it was going to hit the fence. I couldn't even feel the ball coming off the bat."

Two outs and two base runners later, Courtney Gale Hawkins, hitting in the nine spot, sent another Sullivan offering just over the left field fence for three more runs. It was Hawkins' first varsity long shot as well.

Hawkins had entered the game in the fifth as a pinch hitter for designated hitter Leann Ashby. " "You just have to always be ready," Hawkins said.

Like Aldridge's shot, there was some question whether Hawkins' towering blast would have enough oomph to clear the left field fence. It made it with about five feet spare.

It had all happened so quickly.

"We had tried to tell the girls and get them ready for what they were coming to," Scott County coach Jeff Portwood said. "You have two Top 10 teams, and when you have that, you have to start the game and you have to finish the game."

Anderson County coach Brent Aldridge said the Lady Cats also knew his team would need the big swing to get back into things. That the home runs did not belong to Bailey Curry, who tied a state record last year and has already hit 11 in 2015. Scott chose to pitch around Curry, and take its chances with Aldridge.

It was a mistake.

"The grand slam was huge," Anderson coach Brent Aldridge said. "That tied the game and got us the momentum. We had been pretty quiet up to then."

Scott had been in control, scoring unearned runs and weathering two Anderson punches along the way.

Scott got on the board in the second when Sam Smith reached on an error. Scott small-balled Smith around the bases, scoring on Taylor Ricketts' ground out.

Ricketts reached on another error to lead off the fifth, eventually scoring on Hailie Fain's single.

Anderson pitcher Ally Moore struggled at time but limited Scott to five hits and walked two.

"I just laid it out there and tried to lift my team," said Moore, who added that at times, her legs started hurting. "I tried to put a little more effort into it then and tried to get the win.

"I knew my team had my back and I think that is the reason I was comfortable."

Moore, who usually pounds the strike zone with fastballs, relied more on offspeed and breaking pitches against Scott. "That is very rare for me," she said.

Meanwhile, Anderson had threats in the second and third, but Scott picked Kaci Currens off third base with one out in the second. An inning later, the Cardinals cut down Sammy Rogers trying to go from first to third on Missa Walker's single.

Scott seemed to put the finishing touches on things in the top of the sixth when Sam Luckett led off with a home run. Then with two out, Princess Valencia drew a walk. Two singles later, she scored to make it 4-0.

"We had a couple of inning where they had runners on second and third and we were pretty successful (in stopping Anderson), but sooner or later they will hit. Four runs is not enough against a good quality Top 10 team."

Sullivan, a freshman, had been effective through five innings, limiting Anderson to four hits in that time. The Bearcats exploded in the sixth.

"We missed on a couple of pitches and (Anderson) made us pay for it," Portwood said.

Just like a lightning bolt would.

offer "We have some speed and when we get our speed on base, we are going to run," Barnes said. "I have given them more freedom to run this year."

Anderson got another run in the fourth when Mason Baker deposited a towering fly ball just over the fence in left-center.

Courtesy runner Tyler Peters scores on a passed ball in the third inning at Spencer.

The Bearcats scored again in the fifth when John Paul Garmon singled, stole second, went to third on a wild pitch, then scored on Stockton's ground out to second. It was vintage small ball.

And it was what Anderson had expected to be doing all season. It seemed to be clicking at Spencer and at Franklin County two days earlier.

A few days before, Barnes had lamented his team's inability to take advantage of its opportunities. Barnes had an explanation for the Barcats' change of fortunes.

"For one thing we have everybody back now," he said, alluding to several players being gone from the team in the first few weeks.

The break in weather was also helped.

"We have been able to get back on the field (for practice). We have been able to play baseball and some of the kids are beginning to understand their roles now."

Anderson (8-7, 1-0 in district play) did not clinch any seed in the 30th District Tournament, but took a big step to a favorable tournament position. Spencer fell to 8-10 and 0-2.

The Bearcats play Shelby County at home on May 5 and was to have played at Collins Tuesday night after press time.

Jake Brown slides home with a run against Franklin County last week.

Cats fly past Franklin

From staff reports

John Paul Garmon's smacked two doubles, giving Anderson County the big boost as the Bearcats defeated Franklin County, 6-4, last Tuesday in Frankfort.

Garmon's second-inning belt cleared the loaded bases, putting the Bearcats up 4-1. Franklin all three runs were unearned as the Flyer defense had already committed three errors in the inning. Garmon also scorched a seventh-inning double and went on to score an insurance run.

Garmon finished 2-for-4 at the plate with two doubles, three RBI and two runs scored. "He was basically accountable for five of our six runs scored," Anderson coach L.W. Barnes said.

Josh Brown also went 2-for-4 with an RBI and two stolen bases. Mason Baker also delivered two hits for the Bearcats.

Anderson starter Connor Wells went 3.2 innings, scattering four hits and three earned runs. Daniel Whalen came in to get the Bearcats out of a jam in the bottom of the fourth, then held Franklin scoreless in the fifth and sixth innings.

Luke Dowell got the save, pitching the seventh. Dowell gave up an unearned run.

Anderson evened its record at 7-7 while Franklin fell to 9-8.

"We played just good enough to get the win," Barnes said. "If we are able to ever just play consistently, we have potential to be pretty good."

ROAD DEPARTMENT GENERAL LABORER

The Anderson County Fiscal Court is currently accepting applications for a full time position which will include the following duties:

Performs manual labor which often involves the use of acquired skills; does related work as required. This position generally requires more than average physical strength and endurance.

This position does various types of work in the maintenance of county bridges, roads, and other public works projects. The tasks may involve, but are not limited to: manually trimming road right of ways, removing trees, stumps and other debris, clearing work sites of foreign debris, grass cutting, grass trimming, building forms for bridge piers, pouring concrete, cleaning culverts and ditches, performing minor carpentry work, painting and some masonry, working with programs related to solid waste management and other duties as assigned.

Some tasks will require the efficient and safe operation and use of hand tools and equipment such as: ax, shovel, pick, hammer, saw, pry bar, chain saw, lawn mower, string trimmer, etc.

PHYSICAL ACTIVITY

This position requires medium to heavy work requiring the employee to exert in excess to 100 pounds of force occasionally and less force frequently to move objects. Physical activity related to this position may include climbing, balancing, stooping, kneeling, crouching, crawling, reaching, standing, walking. Pushing, pulling. Lifting, grasping, feeling, talking, hearing and repetitive motion. Sufficient visual acuity is required to operate machinery and heavy equipment. An employee in this position will be exposed to indoor and outdoor environmental conditions including extreme heat and cold; subject to some noise and vibration; subject to hazards including working near functioning machinery; subject to fumes, odors, gasses, oils, cutting fluids and poor ventilation. Subject to working in tight or enclosed spaces. An employee in this position could "reasonably" anticipate as a result of performing their job duties, to face contact with potentially dangerous materials.

Some knowledge of variety of semi-skilled maintenance and manual tasks; willingness to perform heavy manual work for an extended period under varying climatic conditions.

Must be willing to assist the Road Department on an "On call" basis during periods of severe weather in order to meet to mission of the Anderson County Road Department.

REQUIREMENTS

NEED A CLASS "A" CDL; Pre-employment Drug Testing Required

Horoscopes

CAPRICORN — December 22–January 19
An old friend reaches out. Call them, Capricorn. They need your support. A treasure is uncovered. Put it to good use. A goal is set high.

ARIES — March 21–April 19
Praise is hard to come by these days, Aries. Keep at it, and you will be rewarded eventually. A family member beats the odds. Celebrate with a day at the park.

CANCER — June 22–July 22
Relax, Cancer. You've done the work, and it shows. You will impress far more than you realize. The details of a long-term plan are finally revealed.

LIBRA — September 23–October 22
Athletic pursuits supersede academics this week, Libra. Give the youngster in your life your blessing. Achievements at work call for a party.

AQUARIUS — January 20–February 18
Stand back, Aquarius. An old acquaintance is about to make a scene. There is a means behind the madness, but that may not be reason enough for you to join in.

TAURUS — April 20–May 20
Battle wages at home. Steer clear of it, Taurus. Winning is impossible. The to-do list grows at the office. Divide and conquer. A request is denied.

LEO — July 23–August 22
Uh-uh-uh, Leo. You've had your turn. It's time for someone else to shine. A fundraiser begins. Money is nice, but time is even better. A conversation turns ugly.

SCORPIO — October 23–November 21
Money matters weigh heavily on your mind. Look to a trusted advisor for help, Scorpio. The best-laid plans will unravel without careful tending.

PISCES — February 19–March 20
Change is inevitable, Pisces. Roll with it. Good will come of it. A message remains unreturned. Try not to let it bother you. You can't win them all.

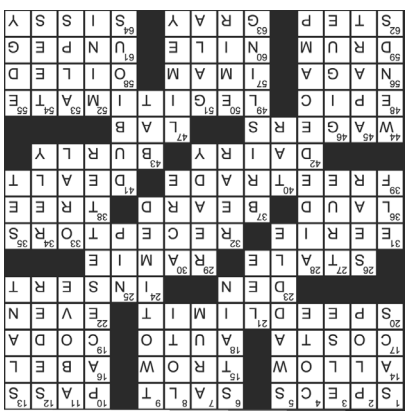

GEMINI — May 21–June 21
You can hope for something all you want, Gemini, but it may not be in the cards right now. There is another more realistic goal. A debt is repaid with interest.

VIRGO — August 23–September 22
For crying out loud, Virgo. How many times are you going to come to a friend's aid before you realize the truth? You're being duped. Turn your efforts elsewhere.

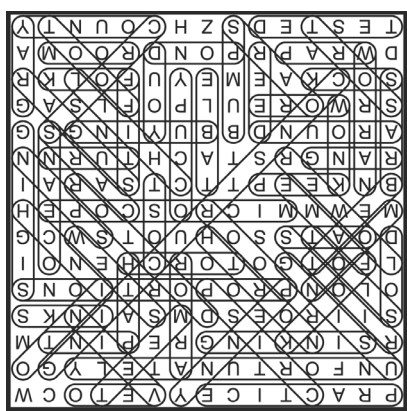

SAGITTARIUS — November 22–December 21
The desire to succeed is strong this week, Sagittarius, perhaps a little too strong. Don't get carried away. An offer is accepted and finalized.

LEGAL NOTICES

MASTER COMMISSIONER'S SALE

In order to comply with the orders of the Anderson Circuit Court, the Master Commissioner will sell the property described in the following actions on Thursday, April 30, 2015, at 11:00 a.m. in the Anderson County Courthouse, Lawrenceburg, Kentucky. The property shall be sold to raise the amounts hereinafter set forth, together with interest and the costs of this action, and upon the following terms and conditions (unless otherwise indicated):

(1) At the time of the sale, the successful bidder shall either pay cash or make a deposit of ten percent (10%) of the purchase price, with the balance on credit for thirty (30) days. In the event the successful bidder elects to credit the balance, he or she will be required to post bond and furnish surety acceptable to the Master Commissioner. The bond shall be for the unpaid purchase price and bear interest and the rate of twelve percent (12%) per annum until paid in full.

(2) PLEASE NOTE: The real estate SHALL BE SOLD SUBJECT TO ALL city, state, county, and school real estate taxes, whether current or delinquent.

(3) Easements, restrictions, stipulations and agreements of record in the Anderson County Clerk's Office. Assessments for public improvements levied against the property, any facts which an inspection and accurate survey of the property may disclose and any and all planning and zoning regulations imposed upon the subject property

(4) Where the real estate has insurable improvements, the successful bidder shall, at his or her own expense, carry fire and extended coverage insurance on said improvements from the date of sale until the purchase price is fully paid, to the extent of the Court appraised value of said improvements or the unpaid balance of the purchase price, whichever is less, at a minimum, with a loss clause payable to the Master Commissioner or the appropriate Plaintiff. Failure of the successful bidder to effect such insurance shall not affect the validity of the sale or the successful bidder's liability thereunder, but shall entitle, but not require, the Plaintiff(s) to effect said insurance and furnish the policy or evidence thereof to the Master Commissioner, if it so desires, and the premium thereon or the property portion thereof shall be charged to the successful bidder as the successful bidder's cost.

(5) The property shall otherwise be sold free and clear of any right, title and interest of all parties to the action and of their liens and encumbrances thereon excepting easements and restrictions of record in the Anderson County Clerk's Office, and such right of redemption which may exist in favor of the United States of America or the Defendant(s), and any matters disclosed by an accurate survey and inspection of the property.

ATTENTION PROPERTY OWNERS
INSPECTION PERIOD
FOR THE 2015 PROPERTY TAX ASSESSMENT ROLL

The Anderson County real property tax roll will be open for inspection from May 4 through May 18, 2014. Under the supervision of the property valuation administrator or one of the deputies, any person may inspect the tax roll.

This is the January 1, 2015, assessment on which state, county, library, health, fire, extension, and school taxes for 2015 will be due after September 15, 2015. The PVA office does not set tax rates. Kentucky law requires that property be assessed equally and uniformly, that each parcel of property be inspected for re-assessment at least once every four years, and that the assessment reflect the price the property would bring in a voluntary sale between a willing buyer and willing seller, given a reasonable time on the market. Assessment notices will be sent to property owners by May 6 ONLY if the assessed value has increased.

The tax roll is in the office of the property valuation administrator, located at 101 Ollie Bowen Court (beside the Courthouse), and may be inspected between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday-Friday and 8:30 a.m.-noon on Saturdays (by appointment).

Any taxpayer desiring to appeal an assessment on real property made by the PVA must first request a conference with the PVA or a designated deputy. The conference may be held prior to or during the inspection period.

Any taxpayer still aggrieved by an assessment on real property after the conference with the PVA or designated deputy may appeal to the county board of assessment appeals.

The taxpayer can appeal his assessment by filing in person or sending a letter or other written petition stating the reasons for appeal, identifying the property and stating the taxpayer's opinion of the fair cash value of the property.

The appeal must be filed with the county clerk's office no later than Tuesday, May 19.

A taxpayer failing to appeal to the county board of assessment appeals, or failing to appear before the board, either in person or by designated representative, will not be eligible to appeal directly to the Kentucky Board of Tax Appeals.

Water - Essential for Life

This report is designed to inform the public about the quality of water and services provided on a daily basis. Our commitment is to provide our customers with a safe, clean, and reliable supply of drinking water. We want to assure that we will continue to monitor, improve, and protect the water system and deliver a high quality product. Water is the most indispensable product in every home and we ask everyone to be conservative and help us in our efforts to protect the water source and the water system.

Lawrenceburg treats surface water from the Kentucky River.The susceptibility to contamination of the raw water is moderate. However, there are a few areas of high concern. There are a number of bridges in the immediate area of the intake.Should an accidental release of contaminants occur from any of these sites it could reach the intakes.Also, an impaired stream and tributary to the Kentucky River occurs just upstream of the intake. There are other contaminant sources including everything from large capacity septic systems, to major roads and railways, to underground storage tanks.These activities, and how they are conducted, are of interest to the entire community because they potentially affect your health and cost of treating your water.A complete source water assessment can be obtained or reviewed at City Hall at the address above.

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects may be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and may pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity. Contaminants that may be present in source water include: Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, (sewage plants, septic systems, livestock operations, or wildlife). Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, (naturally occurring or from stormwater runoff, wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming). Pesticides and herbicides, (stormwater runoff, agriculture or residential uses). Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, (by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, or from gas stations, stormwater runoff, or septic systems). Radioactive contaminants, (naturally occurring or from oil and gas production or mining activities).

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA prescribes regulations that limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. FDA regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water to provide the same protection for public health.

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium and other microbial contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

Some or all of these definitions may be found in this report:

Maximum Contaminant Level (MCL) - the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.

Maximum Contaminant Level Goal (MCLG) - the level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.

Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level (MRDL) - the highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for control of microbial contaminants.

Maximum Residual Disinfectant Level Goal (MRDLG) - the level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.

Below Detection Levels (BDL) - laboratory analysis indicates that the contaminant is not present.

Not Applicable (N/A) - does not apply.

Parts per million (ppm) - or milligrams per liter, (mg/l). One part per million corresponds to one minute in two years or a single penny in $10,000.

Parts per billion (ppb) - or micrograms per liter, (µg/L). One part per billion corresponds to one minute in 2,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000.

Parts per trillion (ppt) - one part per trillion corresponds to one minute in 2,000,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000,000.

Parts per quadrillion (ppq) - one part per quadrillion corresponds to one minute in 2,000,000,000 years or one penny in $10,000,000,000,000.

Picocuries per liter (pCi/L) - a measure of the radioactivity in water.

Millirems per year (mrem/yr) - measure of radiation absorbed by the body.

Million Fibers per Liter (MFL) - a measure of the presence of asbestos fibers that are longer than 10 micrometers.

Nephelometric Turbidity Unit (NTU) - a measure of the clarity of water. Turbidity has no health effects. However, turbidity can provide a medium for microbial growth. Turbidity is monitored because it is a good indicator of the effectiveness of the filtration system.

Variances & Exemptions (V&E) - State or EPA permission not to meet an MCL or a treatment technique under certain conditions.

Action Level (AL) - the concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements that a water system shall follow.

Treatment Technique (TT) - a required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.

Information About Lead:

If present, elevated levels of lead can cause serious health problems, especially for pregnant women and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and components associated with service lines and home plumbing. Your local public water system is responsible for providing high quality drinking water, but cannot control the variety of materials used in plumbing components. When your water has been sitting for several hours, you can minimize the potential for lead exposure by flushing your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using water for drinking or cooking. If you are concerned about lead in your water, you may wish to have your water tested. Information on lead in drinking water, testing methods, and steps you can take to minimize exposure is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline or at http://www.epa.gov/safewater/lead.

Spanish (Español) Este informe contiene información muy importante sobre la calidad de su agua beber. Tradúzcalo o hable con alguien que lo entienda bien.

The data presented in this report are from the most recent testing done in accordance with administrative regulations in 401 KAR Chapter 8. As authorized and approved by EPA, the State has reduced monitoring requirements for certain contaminants to less often than once per year because the concentrations of these contaminants are not expected to vary significantly from year to year. Some of the data in this table, though representative, may be more than one year old. Unless otherwise noted, the report level is the highest level detected.

	Allowable Levels	Highest Single Measurement	Lowest Monthly %	Violation	Likely Source
Turbidity (NTU) TT * Representative samples of filtered water	No more than 1 NTU* Less than 0.3 NTU in 95% of monthly samples	0.32	99	No	Soil runoff
